Distillation of arrack from the Nagercoil Distillery.

229. MR. D. C. JOSEPH (Agastisvaram): Will the Government be pleased to enquire and state:

(a) whether alcohol produced from the Nagercoil Distillery is chemically examined before it is sent out for sale;

(b) whether any scientific expert is in charge of the distilling process;

(c) whether furfural exists in the alcohol produced from the Nagercoil distillery;

(d) whether furfural is a poison;

(e) the cause for the colouration and bad smell of the alcohol produced from the Nagercoil Distillery;

(f) the quantity of jaggery required for a gallon of alcohol; and

(g) whether jaggery is cleared of its impurities before it is put into the still?

MR. T. P. RAMASUBBA AIYAR (Ag. Chief Secretary to Government): (a) No; but samples of the alcohol produced are often subjected to chemical analysis.

(b) The distilling process in the Distillery is in the charge of a trained mechanic.

(c) Whenever it was analysed, it was declared free from furfural.

(d) Furfural is a poison;

(e) The alcohol produced in the Distillery is a very clear liquid and is not discoloured. It has no bad smell.

(f) 15 lbs. on the average;

(g) Jaggery is never put into the still. Wash prepared with jaggery is alone put into the still after the suspended impurities are eliminated.

MR. D. C. JOSEPH (Agastisvaram): With reference to the answer to part (a) of the question, may I know the reason why no chemical examination of the alcohol produced from the Nagercoil Distillery is made?

MR. T. P. RAMASUBBA AIYAR (Ag. Chief Secretary to Government): It is being examined. The answer is for the question whether the alcohol is examined before it is sent out. Such an examination is not being done. But alcohol produced from the distillery is examined.

MR D. C. JOSEPH (Agastisvaram): With reference to the answer to part (b) of the question, may I know whether the trained mechanic has any scientific knowledge? My question was whether any scientific expert is in charge of the distilling process.
